

My dog is suffering from a severe treat shortage. She believes she's being underpaid in treats for services rendered (like existing and being cute). Immediate snacks are required to prevent further tail droop. Premium treats are breaking the budget, forcing a compromise between rent and rawhide bones. A cost-effective solution is needed for sustainable snack satisfaction.

Sources

Ask friends/family what treats their dogs prefer

Ask pet suppliers for free samples

Visit local stores to compare options

Research online reviews of popular treats

Contact shelters or vets for affordable bulk options

Grade scale

Price

Taste rating/ tail wag

How long it takes to eat

Brand name trust

Ingredients and nutrition

Crumb mess level

Platforms

Blogger

WordPress

Substack

TikTok

Instagram

YouTube

Budgeting

Compare local vs online costs

Look for subscription discounts

Try making homemade treats to save money

Track monthly treat expenses

Explore sponsorships or affiliate programs

Homemade Treat Ideas

Peanut butter + oat biscuits

Sweet potato chews

Pumpkin bites

Banana “pupcakes”

Frozen yogurt treats

Mini jerky strips

DIY “treat jars” with names and stickers

Seasonal flavors

Challenges / Hurdles

Ingredient shortages or rising costs

Allergies or picky eaters

Limited budget

Storage or freshness issues

Competing with large treat brands

Getting honest feedback from your own spoiled dog